

Terms of Use

Last Updated: June 26, 2025

Welcome to aivix.com — an independent digital publication covering affiliate marketing, performance advertising, and the broader digital business landscape. By continuing to use this site, you're agreeing to the terms laid out below. We kept them as clear and straightforward as possible — no hidden traps, no legalese for the sake of legalese.

1. What We Do (and Don't Do)

Aivix is a content-driven media platform. We research, write, review, and publish content around affiliate programs, industry trends, companies, tools, and strategies. We're not an affiliate network ourselves, and we don't run affiliate offers.

You don't need an account to read our content — there's no login or subscription required. You can browse freely, leave comments where available, and share articles if you find them helpful.

Just don't expect platform-style services like dashboards, payouts, or account management — that's not what we do.

2. Using Our Content

Everything we publish — from long-form guides to short company reviews — is either created in-house or contributed by approved writers. Unless otherwise noted, it's our original work.

You're welcome to quote, share, or reference our content, as long as:

- You credit us clearly (preferably with a link back),
- You don't republish full articles,
- You don't pass off our work as your own.

We occasionally update older articles, especially when company policies or affiliate program terms change. Still, if you're making business decisions based on something you read here — double-check. We do our best to be accurate, but things shift fast in this space.

3. Affiliate Links and Sponsorships

Some of our content includes affiliate links. If you click on one and sign up or make a purchase, we might earn a commission — at no extra cost to you. These links help fund our work and keep the site free and ad-light.

That said, affiliate partnerships don't influence our editorial stance. We don't promise positive coverage. If a tool or network performs poorly, we'll say so — regardless of any partnership. Sponsored content (if any) will always be labeled clearly.

4. Comments and Community Input

Where comments or reviews are enabled, we encourage genuine input from readers. Whether you're sharing your experience with a company or offering an alternative take on one of our articles, we're glad to hear it — as long as it stays respectful and constructive.

We don't allow:

- Hate speech, personal attacks, or spam,
- Astroturfing (fake reviews),
- Paid-for or incentivized reviews without disclosure.

We reserve the right to moderate, hide, or delete comments at our discretion.

5. External Links and Third-Party Content

Sometimes we link to external websites — tools, platforms, affiliate programs, regulatory resources, and so on. While we aim to link only to trustworthy sources, we're not responsible for what happens once you leave our site. External sites have their own terms, privacy policies, and practices.

Use your judgment when clicking through.

6. Liability Stuff (A.K.A. The Fine Print)

We provide information — not advice. What you choose to do with the content on Aivix is entirely up to you. We can't guarantee results, profits, or outcomes, and we won't be liable for losses or damages connected to how you use our site or the third-party services mentioned here.

Use the site at your own risk, and when in doubt — do more research.

7. Changes to These Terms

We may update these Terms occasionally, especially if we launch new features or the legal landscape changes. If that happens, we'll update the "Effective Date" at the top. Your continued use of the site means you accept any changes — so it's a good idea to check back now and then.

8. Jurisdiction

These Terms are governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Cyprus. By using this Website, you agree that any disputes arising out of or in connection with these Terms shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in Nicosia, Cyprus, without regard to conflict of law principles.

9. Contact

Got questions about any of this? Email us at support@aivix.com — we'll do our best to respond promptly.